Enterprise Primary School

Greetings,

We have a tradition of starting our Annual Report by thanking our donors, supporters, and volunteers. We do this because, without your support, we could not accomplish our goal of improving the educational outcomes of students living in Guyana. For us, 2024 was another banner year. One of the year's highlights included joining The Starbucks Foundation Global Community Impact Grants Program. Thanks to the grant from The Starbucks Foundation, we expanded our work into the Kuru Kururu community. We are excited to share that in 2024, we started a senior feeding program. Working through a local nonprofit, The Pillars, we provide groceries monthly to 15 seniors in the community. Our goal in 2025 is to expand this program to more seniors and continue our work providing hot meals to students and counseling sessions to students who need them.

Here is a summary of two projects we did this past year.

Kuru Kururu Primary School: In June 2024, Blossoms of Guyana donated a high-capacity printer to Kuru Kururu Primary School. The school requires daily worksheets to help enhance the learning process. These worksheets also allow teachers to better track pupils' progress as students can complete more work in less time. Historically parents have had to pay for printing. Unfortunately, this creates an undue cost burden for some parents with multiple children. The donation of the large capacity printer will not only offset the cost of daily printings but also reduce the cost burden on parents trying to educate their children.

St. Thomas Moore Primary School: In September 2024, Blossoms donated a stove to St. Thomas Moore Primary School. The donation will help students by being exposed to culinary skills, enabling them to be self-sufficient. In addition, teachers will be able to complete expository composition in more detail since pupils can observe the steps taken to arrive at the finished product. Lastly, the equipment will assist the school in fund raising activities on the school's premises to prepare food items when needed.
